Abstract :

In this article the author, an Esoteric Knowledge Expert, explores the roles of women in contemporary society, emphasizing the distinction between spirituality and religion. Esoterics represent the highest knowledge, while spirituality involves uniting with the Creator Force. Through their philosophy, AKIA, which focuses on the unseen soul and cosmic knowledge, the author highlights the differences in male and female thinking patterns—males being horizontal and competitive, and females vertical and deep-researching. To achieve a three-dimensional life, understanding both male and female perspectives is crucial. The article underscores the significance of embracing feminine power—compassion, emotion, strength, intuition, sensitivity—and the need for conscious learning and openness to reshape our views and build a better future. The article further extends to the original gender's karmic determination, the influence of social and religious backgrounds on feminine power, and the fundamental role of sexuality in life. Embracing our true capabilities, particularly women, is seen as essential for fostering a more inclusive society and achieving happiness and fulfillment.

Keywords : Spirituality, Feminine Power, AKIA

Introduction :

Due to the fact that I am an expert in Esoteric Knowledge, I have devoted more than three decades to researching the subject matter that is typically linked with spirituality. Esoterics and spirituality are two phrases that are frequently used, but they have been badly influenced by the efforts of mainstream media to diminish the significance of the information that we ought to explore. The term "esoteric," which originates from the Greek language, refers to the most profound and exclusive knowledge that is available to individuals. Esoterics were the titles given to those individuals who were considered to be members of the inner circle of Knowledge. It was possible for these persons to carry out the Philosophia and its instructions. This is a concept that is still considered to be only partially understood. To reiterate, the phrase is derived from Greek and is produced by combining the word "Philo," which means organizing and categorizing, with the word "Sophia," which is a representation of knowledge and wisdom. That you are able to comprehend and relate to statements such as "my personal belief system involves taking the dog for a walk at five o'clock in the morning" or "I possess such a profound understanding of obscure knowledge that I make it a point to light a candle every evening after sunset" are examples of statements that I am certain you will be able to comprehend and relate to. On the other hand, the idea of spirituality can only be examined in a manner that is accurate when it is considered in conjunction with another term that is both mysterious and often used, and that phrase is religion. In spite of the fact that I frequently advise against comparison since it is harmful, I would want to highighlight the differences that exist between the two subjects. Religion is a system of ideas and behaviors that often revolve around certain supernatural and moral assertions about the nature of reality. Religions are frequently organized and formalized, and they are comprised of a collection of beliefs and practices. On the other hand, spirituality refers to the process of working toward the goal of achieving unity with the Creator Force, which is commonly referred to as The Universe. I have established a philosophy that I refer to as AKIA. This philosophy was developed as a result of my interest with the universe, the environment, people, and especially the thinking process. In other words, it is the investigation of the intangible core of the person and the wisdom that universally exists. It is the philosophy that liberates. This remark is founded on the notion that fear is the formidable force that not only binds us but also undermines our sense of security. This would offer clarity to the mind, structure to the thoughts, ease uncertainty, and lessen the confusing experience of being in a situation that is unclear. Gaining an understanding of the interconnectivity of events would bring about these beneficial effects. Your cognitive and affective capacities will be considerably improved as a result of participating in this activity, which will ultimately result in a greater level of knowledge and clarity in your life. Throughout the course of my professional career, I had the privilege of meeting a great number of remarkable people, both male and female. According to the teachings that I have received, living is a state of being that is exalted and conscious. In light of this, observation serves as the primary foundation for the enhancement of my experiences. This observation is taken very seriously by me, and I make it a point to incorporate it into my day-to-day activities. In addition, it helped me recognize that males and females, as a whole, had separate thought processes, actions, and perspectives on life. This was a significant realization for me.

The 2 poles mindset :

In addition, I am explaining that the realm of the mind is where all events in the world take place. My subsequent plan of action consisted of conducting an investigation into the factors that led to the existence of these discrepancies. As a result of years of hard work and research, I have arrived at a conclusion that is both highly exciting and completely predictable. Men have a tendency to think in a style that is linear or sequential. In other words, it indicates that they move along the outside while keeping a steady focus on the aim, making sure that it is constantly at the forefront of their attention. Myopic, goal-oriented, and motivated by a desire to outperform others, their approach is determined by performance. People frequently lose awareness of their surroundings and the implications of their actions while they are engaged in the activities that they are engaged in. In spite of this, the concentration bestows to them the capacity to maintain their composure and calmness. In addition to this, it restricts them, preventing them from having the chance to interact with unfamiliar people or to learn new things. The way they think almost never shifts. They are only able to exist on Earth. Opportunities that encourage emotional development have a difficult time penetrating their range of visualization. The vertical path is the one that women choose. They carry out exhaustive research, digging into the intricacies of the subject matter, unearthing material that is both delicate and useful, and possibly becoming captivated in it, all the while losing sight of the primary aim. Without engaging in critical inquiry, females frequently place a high premium on traditions and belief systems, despite the fact that they may demonstrate a higher openness to new ideas. Eventually, they lose interest in the climax because they are so involved in the action that is taking place. As a result of this extreme passion, individuals develop a fervor that causes them to become impatient and powerful advocates of their beliefs, regardless of whether or not those opinions are meritorious.

These are both two-dimensional approaches to the problem. In this way, they represent both the vertical and horizontal dimensions. Nevertheless, it is essential for the process of evolution that we broaden our thoughts even further, begin on the voyage of grasping and thinking in three dimensions, and generate the facets by combining the vertical and horizontal dimensions and combining them. When we have completely mastered the vertical and horizontal procedures that we have been concentrating on, then and only then will we be able to complete this process. In the beginning, it is of the utmost importance to learn the knowledge and abilities that are required to embody the qualities and characteristics that are associated with being a woman and a man, accordingly respectively. To put it another way, my outlook on the cosmos, on humanity, and especially on women is holistic, which is spelled with a W. The reason for this is that we live in a cosmos that is always expanding, interconnected, and in a state of constant motion. The ever-present force of attraction and repulsion is responsible for preserving the coherence of the universe and facilitating the motion that is necessary for existence. All objects include two poles that are diametrically opposed to one another, which are the source of the attraction and repulsive forces. Within the context of our scenario, the two extremes are males and females, which represent the two aspects of our three-dimensional existence that we all try to achieve. What exactly is the nature of this existence that exists in three dimensions? Reaching this goal is a responsi-bility that we owe not only to ourselves but also to the world and the universe. Through participation in events, the acquisition of knowledge from the wider world, and the transformation of that knowledge into wisdom through the application of that knowledge in practical situations, our goal is to awaken our spirits. This lovely kingdom of happiness can be reached by following the golden brick road, which is the roadway that leads there. In order for us to achieve this desirable mental state, it is vital for us to engage in deliberate learning, meaning that we must continually push the boundaries of our comfort zone in order to acquire a new perspective on life. An education that begins with the acquisition of knowledge about our natural gender is the most secure beginning place for education. In the first place, the genderless soul that chose to merge with a corporeal form made a conscious decision to choose this particular gender in order to facilitate the resolution of any karmic residue that was carried over from previous incarnations or the fulfillment of preexisting agreements that were made before to descending. The presence of these two forces is always present within us. A connection exists between them and the realm of consciousness as well as the realm of the subconscious. All of our experiences, belief systems, and routines are included in the conscious mind, and some of these can be classified as codes according to their characteristics.

A relationship exists between the Subconscious and the cosmos. Due to the fact that the mind is the location where all events take place, I am providing you with this information because the essence is where everything happens. In addition, it is a generally held belief that modern practices in the fields of health and psychology are incapable of comprehending the nature of these phenomena because of the intangible nature of thoughts. Although it is possible for them to interpret signals that originate from the conscious mind, such as the brain, the functioning of the subconscious mind, the ego, and the pineal gland is still something that we do not fully comprehend. Males are often associated with consciousness due to the fact that they have a more grounded perspective, whilst females, who are more closely associated with the water element, are said to be linked to the subconscious. We have arrived at a point where we require an explanation for the fundamental reason that lies behind this major shift in the mindsets of both parties. It is because of the different approaches that people of different genders take to sexuality that there is such a difference. I would like to underline that everything is essentially tied to the idea of reproduction, as all living organisms possess the innate urge for survival and the power to generate new life. This is something that I would like to emphasize. We contribute to the working of the mechanics of life by our actions, thoughts, and voice, so fos-tering the convergence of two opposing forces in a dance of fertility. All of these things are interconnected. On the other hand, the sexual center of the female brain is situated in close proximity to the auditory center of the brain, while the sexual center of the male brain is within close proximity to the visual center. Do you recognize the sound? There is a well-established truth that men are more likely to be interested in the intricate details of packing materials. Furthermore, it is a well-established fact that women are invariably attracted to guys who have a relaxing vocal tone and charming language. This is true regardless of whether or not the men are genuine and sincere. When women talk about their romantic partner, infatuation, or significant other, they talk about the voice features and words that they employ themselves. Men often talk about the physical characteristics of the people they could be interested in dating. Not only does this realization connect to the effects of engaging in want stimulation, but it also pertains to the mindset and perspective that one has on life. Both vision and hearing are considered to be two of the five major senses that are possessed by the human body. In addition to this, there is the highest possible level of clarity, which is enhanced by the third eye and functions as the sixth sense. In spite of this, it is essential to have a clear understanding that the third eye is not a sense that can be touched, but rather a heightened amalgamation of the other five senses that work together in an integrated manner.

Consequently, it is an undeniable fact that you are unable to unlock it by means of any kind of magic. Consistent effort and a willingness to widen one's perspective are both necessary components in the process of acquiring a full understanding. It is not always the case that the act of staring reveals the true essence of an object or person, despite the fact that we say that we only accept what we see. The light rays that are reflected off of them are what we are able to capture. The eyes, which are the organs responsible for visual perception, serve as the first filter in this process of reflection. A more distinct visual sense that characterized by vivid color delineation is the outcome of optimal ocular health. The selection of the eye that we use to concentrate on a certain subject or object is the second essential component that plays a significant role in determining the quality of our vision. Have you had the opportunity to observe that we only use one eye at a time to guide our attention? The eye is the one that determines our mental and emotional intelligence. In point of fact, I would argue that intelligence is the phrase that best describes the situation. In other words, it indicates that people, by making use of their cognitive abilities, deliberately direct their attention towards their right eye. The conscious mind will first filter the image before it is sent to the subconscious, even though image is in fact conveyed to the subconscious.

Any latent or intrinsic qualities of the image are removed with the use of this application. These persons have a cognitive tendency toward thinking in a horizontal fashion, which manifests itself in their thinking. One of the most common ways of thinking among men is the one described below. On average, women tend to have a higher ability to concentrate with their left eye. As a result, the image initially enters the subconscious mind, where it undergoes processing, and then it eventually makes its way to the conscious mind for additional analysis. To summarize, the assertion that our mental images are the primary contributors to the formation of our perceptions is, without a doubt, correct. Because of this, it is referred to as an image within the industry. Our innovative thought has resulted in the creation of this. When I talk about imagination, I sometimes refer to it as the memory of the soul since it is something that resides beyond the boundaries of our bodily limits. However, it is not conceivable for us to think of something that does not belong to the category of existence. In spite of this, ears are able to detect vibrations that are entirely genuine. In light of the fact that everything is made up of energy and is constantly moving, there is a significant quantity of cacophony that we are had to comprehend and tolerate. Having said that, let us now talk about the filter of intelligence that selects various noises in a specific manner. Due to the fact that energies that are similar to one another are drawn to one another, the frequencies that you have chosen are in harmony with your beliefs and cognition. Preferences and aversions are the terms that are most commonly used of them. The filters are made more complicated by the fact that your current mentality, cognitive processes, ambitions, and objectives are all contributions. It is a sign that when you have a dream about a romantic relationship, your ears will give priority to the words, sounds, and vibrations that are related with your thoughts about that particular individual.

The nature of Feminine Power :

In the previous section, I talked about the key physiological features that are associated with the feminine mindset. The filter, on the other hand, is subject to change throughout time as a consequence of social context, belief system, and tradition. This is despite the fact that the core remains unchanged. When one's religious predisposition gets deeply embedded in tradition and permanently influences one's mindset, so considerably affecting one's perspective on life, existence, and the cosmos, it appears that these three, particularly the last two, are tightly tied to one another. Women are compelled to channel their intrinsic passion toward trivial disagreements rather than addressing the underlying issues and improving the essential areas of life because of the link that is unwavering and uncontested. The cohesiveness of all entities in the universe is determined by the laws of physics and mathematics to a certain extent. It is possible to draw the conclusion that the head always follows the root, given that any changes in the head can only take place if there are changes in the root. This observation offers support for this conclusion. Despite this, the fundamental nature can be altered by the application of human insight. In accordance with the philosophy that places an emphasis on the concealed features of significance, the origin of a thought or idea starts at the point when your comprehension comes to an end. The desire to do so places limitations on the goals that are being pursued and frequently leads to unfavorable outcomes. The situation is analogous to building a house without giving it a strong foundation. It can be accomplished. It is possible that the structure will function adequately for a given amount of time; but, it will soon become clear that in order to improve its performance, the house has to have a strong foundation. Excuse me while I provide an example to illustrate this point: Our goal was to achieve parity. The privilege of being able to find work. The privilege of being able to independently earn our own income, regardless of how little it may be.

Having said that, we were not able to accurately predict the future repercussions. We had the presumption that it would grant us the freedom that we were looking for. We committed ourselves to achieving our goals as successful women and began our endeavors with a strong sense of determination. While the course of events unfolded, we were influenced by society and the mass media to place a higher priority on the development of our male characteristics, while simultaneously abandoning our genuine values. Within the current circumstances, we discovered that we were caught in a bind. Rather than making a net profit, we ended up making a net loss. We transferred the job of educating and caring for our children and family to the government and its largely male officials while we concentrated on getting the skills and information necessary to become adult humans. This was done while we were focusing on becoming mature individuals. It is possible for individuals to create their own viewpoints and pursue their own goals on a global scale by exercising their freedom of choice. The subsequent generation has been impacted by a perspective that is primarily male-oriented, which has led to a loss of variety and inclusivity in the world. In addition, we discovered that we were subject to taxation. To a very large extent. In spite of the progress that has been made, we nevertheless remain in a state of inequality. Despite the fact that we may assert that we are something, we do not have conviction in our beliefs.

How come this is the case? Due to the fact that it is not deeply embedded in our psyche. The fact that we have deeply ingrained beliefs that have been passed down from ancient times makes us reluctant to give them up. Apprehension is something that we have regarding the male point of view. We are terrified of letting down those who are close to us as well as the greater society as a whole. We have been completely deprived of all of our possessions, which is a very unfortunate situation. Our role as the architects of the future, the cultivators of values, and the creators of household environments has been ceded by us. These are the true examples of what it means to be a woman of integrity. In doing so, we have given up our capacity to actively engage in the process of building society and to serve as significant figures of feminine authority. It is imperative that we acknowledge and accept the fact that every single person is essentially equal. While distinct, they are comparable, regardless of a person's gender, as well as their socioeconomic status, social standing, religious beliefs, and ethnic heritage. For the sake of achieving this equality, there is no requirement for us to engage in a conflict. It is made available. The only thing that is required of us is to conduct ourselves in a manner that reflects that we are aware of this aspect. Recognizing that the future cannot be built with the remnants of the past is an essential step in the process. Taking all of this into consideration, this is the last chance we have to completely acknowledge and reclaim the power that we have as women. What exactly is meant by the saying "feminine power"? Compassion, emotion, strength, intuition, depth, fire, sensitivity, and understanding are only some of the essential aspects that make up mankind. Because of this, the responsibility for making this earth a better place is with us. If we want to do this, we need to stop following the disastrous road that males have set for themselves and their quest of concentrated authority. In order to dismantle the deceptive picture of the world, ourselves, our position, and consequently, our authority, which has been implanted in our minds by male dominators and educators, we need to dive deep into the root of the matter without any fear of doing so.

Assess the Present :

The cosmos provides mankind with a tremendous amount of aid in order for them to accomplish this primary goal. The Precession of the Equinoxes, which took place in 2003, was the event that marked the beginning of the Uranus period, which has a duration of 2160 years. There is a powerful and frequently occurring feminine force that is driving humanity forward into the future, which is referred to as the Golden Era.

When it comes to adequately depicting the circumstances that we have allowed to take place on Earth, the term "Golden Era" falls short. The planets and all kinds of living energy reside at the same time within the enormous expanse of the universe, and their relationships are complex and convoluted. The constant action of these entities, which is analogous to the grinding of stones, shapes not just each other but also the smaller entities that are located in between. There are subordinate matrices that exist within the immense cosmic framework that is being referred to as the Great Matrix of the Universe. Each of these subordinate matrices contains even more tiny matrices. As a result of your familiarity with a particular set of experiences, your comprehension of these interrelated relationships is limited. Nevertheless, there are particular qualities that you are aware of, but you do not have a thorough understanding of them. "The horoscope system" is an example of one of these systems. In spite of the fact that human imagination, innocence, and ego transcend beyond the domain of reality, we continue to place our goals in the realm of the stars, particularly when it comes to topics pertaining to romantic relationships. There is no doubt that the macrocosm has a big impact on us; nonetheless, we have a tendency to view the sky as a flat canvas, presuming that it does not undergo any changes.

Despite the fact that the Galactic Quantum Leap has occurred, the zodiac has not yet been observed to have changed. The presence of the recently discovered 22-star configuration zodiac is still relatively unknown, despite the fact that it has had a profoundly transforming effect on our understanding. In the smallest matrix in which we are able to exist, the Solar System is the one. As a result of the fact that humans also have an effect on the energy of the planets in our solar system, the behavior of the planets has a direct affect on Earth and our lives. The Sun, which is situated in the core of the solar system, is the center of the globe that the Earth revolves around. At the center of the galaxy, the Solar System revolves around the center of the galaxy. However, the crisis is still ongoing. The motion of the Solar System is significant when viewed from the point of view of the Golden Era and its significance. There is one Galactic Year that corresponds to one full orbit around the center of the galaxy. Sun Ages are the five stages that make up a Great Cycle. The cycles of light and dark alternate, as is the case with all phenomena. This is the case with the cycles of light and dark. The conclusion of the Dark Cycle occurred on December 28, 2012, which marked the beginning of the Light, commonly referred to as the Golden Era. Now is the time to awaken and embrace the information and talents that have been given upon us with complete and utter enth-usiasm, displaying poise and elegance in the process. One of the most remarkable aspects of this class is the presence of female students and instructors. Therefore, the reorganization of life is not a matter of preference but rather a necessity for the power that is associated with the feminine. In spite of this, there are particular aspects that require our attention while we are formulating a plan for the development of a better future. First and foremost, it is essential to recognize the harsh reality that the only way for our lives to improve is if we widen our objectives to include the entirety of the human race. When one's goals are accomplished at the expense of other people, the idea of personal independence is rendered meaningless. Other important realizations include the fact that our goal cannot be a solution that is implemented quickly. It fails on a consistent basis. It is necessary to adopt a perspective that is looking forward, pertaining to the prospects that lie ahead for our children! It was our lack of forethought that brought us to the current predicament. Males were solely responsible for the construction of our environment and culture during the Pisces-Neptune era, which lasted for close to three thousand years. Individual interests are given priority in this environment, whereas the majority of people are excluded from participation overall. It is imperative that we correct this error.

The human race has a persistent inclination to construct the future based on the relics of the past, without taking into account the circumstances that are now in place. This is another fundamental error that humanity has made. It is imperative that we engage in self-reflection that is really honest. My goal is to purposefully make you feel uneasy and provide you with a challenge, with the goal of stimulating your mind and driving you to engage in extensive thought. Questions that are asked frequently receive responses that are predictable, which discourages individuals from moving beyond their usual surroundings. It is within the infinite world of the unfamiliar that the fundamental keywords for personal growth, education, and development can be found. An connection to the familiar, which develops as a result of feelings of unease, is the root cause of the prevalent myopia. It is therefore my recommendation that an inventory of the current situation be carried out, that the sources of the problems be traced, and that the process of altering attitudes on life, masculinity, and femininity be initiated. Learning on purpose and being open to new experiences should be the primary focus of the future. It is important to have the courage to change things that can be changed, and to avoid wasting time and effort on things that cannot be changed. It makes no difference whether or if women achieve power and influence in a variety of domains, including but not limited to the realms of finance, religion, politics, spirituality, and family status, amongst others. Regardless of the position they have, they do not deviate from a conventional system that was established by males. They are under the mistaken impression that they have achieved success in their efforts to achieve gender equality, which leads them to give up their feminine identity and adopt characteristics that are associated with men. Certainly, this is not a contest of any kind. It is not a competition at all. Dependence on one another is absolutely necessary. Every one of us has a longing for the other. As long as we are not together, our existence will be lacking something essential. It is vital to have access to the mirror that others hold up to us for the purpose of self-evaluation in order for us to be able to improve in our individual areas of competence.

The way ahead :

This trip involves complete openness and the acknowledgment that our efforts are not just for our own gain, but also contribute to the welfare of the world and all of humanity. This is a recognition that is necessary for this journey. It takes a large amount of effort and a great deal of education to peel away the layers of human fabrication that have been built into our existence. It is necessary to acknowledge that, despite the fact that we are all equal as human beings, regardless of gender, we are not the same with one another, and the most important parts are not disclosed. We are required to carry out an exhaustive analysis, assess the results, and formulate a plan for the future in accordance with the findings. Having said that, let us not lose sight of the fact that this is our exact moment. As a result of the fact that the universe is giving us with aid, we have a moral obligation to achieve success, not just for ourselves but also for our sisters, our children, and the entire human race. Before we get started, there are particular terms that require us to adjust our comprehension of them.

Female : This particular phrase, which originates from Latin, is used to indicate to something that is formed or produced by a male. Latin, which is a language that is not spoken, rose to prominence as a result of its link with Christianity and modern medicine. Latin had the ability to effectively express the concepts of both of these fields. We have the potential to modify the connotation and significance of the term "FEMALE" inside our own thinking, despite the fact that the gender of the word itself may be unchangeable. As a result of taking prompt action, we improve the possibility that we will be able to free ourselves from the confines of false regulations that have ensnared us, so reclaiming our actual nature and purpose.

I would like to make it clear that we are allowed to be guided. Due to the fact that women are more emotionally reactive and sensitive than men, they are more likely to take in influences from their surroundings. Furthermore, they are more likely to feel comfortable pretending to be victims and bearing emotional suffering.

Men-Strual : In the lives of females, the beginning of the menstrual cycle is the second significant event that occurs after the first time they breathed on their own as a human being. Although there are some communities, shamanic groups, and faiths and belief systems that are focused on nature that do observe this occasion, it is generally acknowledged as a symbol of fertility and permission to breed, which ultimately allows us to fulfill our predetermined destiny. The decision to have children, on the other hand, is not a predetermined fate but rather a question of human choice. The beginning of the menstrual cycle, which is a significant event that marks the beginning of the transition into womanhood. This is the time when Venus is in the dominant position. The youthful, enthusiastic, impetuous, and occasionally thoughtless vitality that is looking for her position in terms of sexuality and emotional-mental development. She turns her attention to the Moon, hoping to receive guidance from a figure that is maternal, experienced, and wise with age. It is the Moon that she looks to for guidance and the strength to face the challenges that are on the approaching.

Mental Breakdown : It is implied by the expression that guys are the ones who are responsible for our hazards, whether they are caused directly or indirectly. In point of fact, it is correct. However, life is characterized by a reciprocal exchange, a powerful engagement, and a perpetual interplay between queries and responses. These are the characteristics that define life. Erroneous ideas, cognitive frameworks, and perceptions that are misleading ought to be prevented from participating in the game. Our desire of something that does not exist, our unreachable ambitions, and our lack of information about ourselves and the opposite gender are not things that we can attribute to guys or to our misfortune. Humans have been subjected to manipulation and brainwashing on essential aspects of existence on a consistent basis over the course of the previous three millennia. The time has come for us to broaden our thoughts and establish the perfect framework of events that are interconnected.

Men-Apause : Further highlighting the ending of the reproductive cycle, it is an indication that males have reached the end of their reproductive cycle. the course of a woman's life, the menopause is the third stage of initiation.

The triumphs, victories, happiness, and exciting future that lies ahead are the reasons for the celebration that is taking place. In the course of my work as a healer, I have come to realize that the entirety of our experiences take place within the realm of the mind. I would want to underline this point. It is possible to relieve the vasomotor symptoms and dysmenorrhea that are associated with menopause by shifting one's way of thinking. Humanity is pushed to engage in conversations about feminine power in the present day as a consequence of the feminine, sensitive, and high-frequency energies that Uranus possesses, as well as the considerable influence that the Golden Era wields. The logic, on the other hand, is a reflection of the cognitive and emotional intelligence of the individuals who are engaging, as is the case in every discourse. A significant lack of awareness regarding the fundamental aspects of life, mankind, and the earth is currently being experienced by humanity around the world. Because of this, their participation is superficial, self-centered, and focused on making a profit. People have a tendency to view the inherent rights that every individual possesses as being evil, sinful, and even occasionally even satanic. These rights are derived from the complicated combination of the small-scale and large-scale parts of existence. Because of this, we were obliged to critically examine our own capabilities and to accept the fluid movement of collective consciousness.

Conclusion :

- There is no connection between sexuality and the process of expanding the number of people living on the planet. It is a representation of the very essence of existence, the impetus behind the formation of things, and the arena in which feelings are developed. It can be found anywhere. Additionally, there is no indication of a particular gender. The ideals that are instilled in our minds by traditions and religions are designed to facilitate the process of procreation and to produce a stable and controllable unit, both financially and emotionally, through the institution of the family.
- In point of fact, our families have the ability to provide us a feeling of safety. On the other hand, the impression of security is somewhat misleading. That does not exist at all. It makes it more difficult for us to make adjustments and alters the pattern of behavior that develops naturally in us. It is imperative that we move beyond this mindset and acknowledge that we are not compelled to follow the way of life and way of thinking of our ancestors. Instead, we should strive to create a path that is suited for both ourselves and the generations that will come after us.

- Some of the subjects that we talk about are love, unity, and kindness. Considering that these patterns of behavior are a reflection of our cognitive and emotional intelligence, it is reasonable to expect them to emerge naturally. These characteristics, on the other hand, do not become apparent as our actual qualities until we have reached a particular degree of vibration. Once we have an understanding that things are unquestionable and devoid of any conditions. While it is conceivable to feel fondness for some people, it is not possible to feel hatred against other people. It is incongruous to take up the topic of kindness if you are someone who supports war and violence. There is not a single exception. Besides that, they are devoid of substance.

- Our membership in communities and groups is not the only thing that we are. To begin, individuals who belong to the human species are what we are. As a consequence of this, it is of the utmost importance that we are committed to investigating and accepting our gender identity.

- In addition, it is essential to recognize that every facet possesses two conflicting purposes, and that these ends are of equal relevance within the context of the whole. To put it another way, there is no such thing as male or female sexuality; rather, there is only sexuality. It is natural for women to have a strong desire for sexual closeness, and they absolutely ought to experience the same amount of sexual intimacy as males. It should come as no surprise that they participate in the activity together, as this is a common occurrence.

- As earthlings, regardless of our gender, all of us are primarily romantically involved. By the time we have reached the point when we have mastered this incredible endeavor, we will have become skilled partners and exceptional parents.

- It has no bearing on the degree of expertise or ineptitude possessed by an individual. The labels "good" and "evil" are highly subjective. Males are the ones who are responsible for establishing these phrases in the common mindset.

- During the course of their lives on Earth, humans have the opportunity to gain a vast amount of knowledge. One of the basic goals of human existence is to maintain a state of continual development and technological advancement. The term "evolution" refers to the process by which living organisms undergo progressive change and development over the course of multiple generations, which ultimately results in the diversity of species that we see today. The development of a human requires the nurturing of innate capabilities and potential that do not normally manifest on their own.

This is accomplished through the process of evolution. There is a clear correlation between the development of a man's awareness and the development of his character. The consequence of this is that it is unable to develop without the presence of conscious consciousness. Because the development of his will is a purposeful process, it is impossible for it to take place without his conscious effort alone. One of the most important aspects of a man's development is the growth of his capacity for action. It is not possible to attribute the act of engaging in action to the happenings that occur as the natural progression of existence.

- In order to raise your own vibration, you will need to commit yourself to hard work and make a conscious effort to learn new things.

- In spite of this, women play an extremely important part. A tremendous emotional experience that leads to Nirvana ultimately results in happiness, which is a state of profound emotional satisfaction that encompasses pain, beauty, sadness, despair, and enormous joy. Happiness is the final culmination of this experience.
